DISTRICT COURT CLERK SAYS ACCOUNTS ARE O. K.

to sustain any of them.

All Land Deals Investigated.

People here hold the view that the officials of the department of justice and the special agents of the land office, will investigate the transactions of different territorial land boards in the matter of the disposition of the territorial public lands, donated by congress for various institutions and disposed of during the past five years.

Grand Jury to Act.

It is stated that all of these cases will be brought before the next United States grand jury and later grand juries if the time is not sufficient.

Public sentiment here favors action by the government looking towards an investigation of these cases and the indictment of officials if it is found that such disposition has been dishonest, or with the connivance or collusion of officials.

Officials Court Investigation.

There is no disposition on the part of officials or the public in general to resist such action.

Quite the reverse, the officials are disposed to aid it in every proper and legitimate way.

It is admitted that if Judge McFie desired to have another man as clerk of the court he had the right and power to carry out his desire. Mr. Berger is out of office and takes matters coolly.

He says that all he asks is a fair and impartial examination of his accounts and he will abide the results.
